Services Related to Purchase Price Allocation (PPA)

Gesvalt | Advisory & Valuation

What Is a PPA?

It is an accounting requirement that arises in M&E processes involving companies, divisions or production units over which control is exercised following a business combination.

What Does It Consist of?

It involves recognising all the assets and liabilities acquired at their fair value and allocating the difference between the value assigned and the price paid as goodwill.

Main features

- Ensure that assets are recognised at fair value.
- Provide transparency to the transaction.
- Provide a transaction analysis tool.
- Justify the price paid for the investment.
- Understand the difference in the purchase price allocation processes of different companies.

What is the purpose of a PPA?

Provide transparency and facilitate comparability to investors and users of financial information.
